Residence of John Wayne (b.1907-d.1979). Wayne became a star in 1939 with the film Stagecoach and continued to play the "tough-but-tender" man during his career in which he received an Academy Award for Best Actor in the film She Wore a Yellow Ribbon. Five years after his first screen appearance, John Wayne moved to this Hollywood apartment building. John Wayne later moved to the San Fernando Valley in the 1950s. B10. Statement of Significance (continued): End Sales," Los Angeles Times, 14 Dec 1919, VI; "Display Ad," Los Angeles Times, 11 April 1920, V3; "Residence Sales," Los Angeles Times, 25 July 1920, V4. Similar to these other buildings, John King sold the subject property shortly after it was constructed in April 1920 to Alfred Easter, who was then retired (County of Los Angeles Deeds Book 7204, 28 April 1920, 111). The property sold several more times before Alice J. Kramer, a widow, sold the property to Frank J. Sardam (1880-1954) and his wife Hazel L. Sardam (1888-1970) in April 1943. Hazel Sardam owned the property until her death in 1970 (County of Los Angeles Deeds Book 19953, 16 April 1943, 131; County of Los Angeles Deeds Book 3021, 12 Aug 1970).

The subject property appears eligible for listing the California Register as a fine example of Mediterranean Revival style. With a long west façade, the architect created a wide canvas on which to exhibit many decorative details, such as the glass entry canopy, window surrounds at the first floor, and balcony railing. Scrolled brackets become a leitmotif. Architectural features are well-integrated with the overall design. The glass entry canopy spans all four entry doors, integrating the projecting wings and central recess into a unified whole. This use of decorative details and attention to form is highly unusual in apartment buildings of this period and type.

   In 1925, a 99-year lease for the property located at 1825 N. Cahuenga Ave (Marcell Arms Apartments) was granted to Hollywood broker, Henri P. Guertin, and planned for improvement with a high-class structure in April of 1925 (" Syndicate Signs Long Lease for Cahuenga Lot," LA Times, 26 April 1925, F11). The building opened for occupancy in September of 1925. Henri P. Guertin represented all parties in real estate negotiations ("New Construction Indicates Building Trend," LA Times, 7 Jun 1925, G1). It is one of four similarly styled Beaux Arts buildings in Hollywood, erected by the Hollywood Income Properties, Inc. of which George Marcell was president in 1927. The other three properties... B10. Statement of Significance (continued): are the Shelton at 1735 Wilcox Ave (a 160-room apartment building completed in May of 1926), the Mayfair located at 1764 Wilcox Ave, and the Weston, or "Gilbert Hotel," a hotel located at 1550 N Wilcox. All four buildings were designed by architect William Allen and constructed by Arthur Bard & Co.

William Allen designed numerous other buildings throughout Los Angeles, including: Hollywood Sixty Club at the intersection of Hollywood Blvd and McCadden Place (not extant), an American Legion Post #123 building at Santa Monica, a fire department in Manhattan Beach, a hospital in Duarte, various single family residences, and South Gate City Hall. Arthur Bard constructed numerous buildings throughout Los Angeles, doing much of his work with architect William Allen and also completing projects based on the designs of prolific Los Angeles architect L.A. Smith. Bard constructed the Smith-designed Beaux Arts apartment building located at 1241 Vine St and the Smith-designed L.A. Concordia Athletic Club located at 360 Westlake Avenue. Bard is also responsible for constructing a two-story reinforced concrete theater located at the northwest corner of Crenshaw Blvd and Adams St.

This apartment building appears significant both as an excellent example of a property type that represents an important pattern of dense, urban development to accommodate a rapid increase in population as well as for its association with important local architect William Allen. Despite the pervasive American ideal of single family ownership evidenced at the turn of the twentieth century, there was, nonetheless, a growing trend in large cities across the nation towards people living together in collective dwelling arrangements. Initial, the communal living arrangements of apartment living aroused much suspicion among the middle class as being morally suspect, a concern from which Hollywood was not immune. During the 1920s, Hollywood was undergoing rapid urbanization parallel with a significant rise in population density and apartment housing became an increasingly attractive option to both prospective tenants as well as to speculative land developers. Typical of the property type, this property is four stories tall, constructed of brick and designed to fill as much of the lot as feasibly possible with configurations in the shape of a U.

"The Lido anchors the western end of a cluster of three and four story apartment buildings on or near this portion of Yucca Street. Designed in classical revival styles, the buildings impart a sense of formality and urbanism that relates to several of the hotels and office buildings built on Hollywood Blvd in the 1920s. A particularly notable feature is the way in which the architect, F.A. Brown, adapted the plan to the site, incorporating curved and angled bays" (Historic Resources Inventory Department of Parks and Recreation form, L. Heumann, C. McAvoy, April 1984). A 1939 LA Times advertisement describes the Lido as a 5-story Class B Building containing 129 furnished units ("Will...(continued on next page)

*Required Information
In 1939, permits were issued to owner/contractor Aetna Construction Company of 361 S. Witmer for erection of two 2-story, 14-family, 50-room apartment buildings and 4 garage buildings located at 5405-5411 and 5413-5419 Fernwood Ave. No architect is listed on the permit. The engineer was J.J. Rees. Total valuation of proposed work was $35,000 for each apartment building and $675 for each garage. The same owner/contractor and engineer are responsible for design and construction of the adjacent apartment building and two garages, located at 1351-65 N. Serrano Ave, all of which were constructed during the same year at the same cost (LA Building Permit No. 36678-91).

B10. Statement of Significance (continued): apartment appears especially significant as an excellent example of a property type that represents an important pattern of dense, urban development to accommodate a rapid increase in population. Well into the 1920s, apartment buildings of any kind were typically viewed as an intrusion within areas previously established as neighborhoods comprised of single family residences. The construction of courtyard housing allowed speculative landowners to develop their parcels at higher densities than that afforded by the construction of a single family home. Courtyard apartments, arranged around a central landscaped area, allowed tenants exterior space that provided additional privacy.

The property located at 1400 N Serrano Ave is contained within a bungalow court consisting of 9 dwelling units and two additional buildings. Each of the 11 buildings located within the bungalow court is contained on a separate parcel, which is very unusual development pattern for a bungalow court. In 1920, permits were issued to owner/architect/contractor R.W. Schmoldt of 832 1/2 West 41 St. for construction of six 4-room, 1-story, single-family dwellings at 1390, 1392, 1394, 1396, 1398, and 1400 North Serrano Ave. Each residence was constructed at a cost of $2,000. Permits for construction of the remaining two dwelling units and the three buildings located to the rear were not found... (continued on next page)
B10. Statement of Significance (continued): However, the permits for the six dwellings note that a garage was already located on the property in 1920. (LA Building Permit No. 6016-6021).

This bungalow court appears significant as an increasingly rare example of a formerly ubiquitous property type in Hollywood that represents an important pattern of dense, urban development to accommodate a rapid increase in population. Designed in a Craftsman style, the property exemplifies character-defining features of a bungalow court including multiple, semi-dethatched buildings arranged around a landscaped courtyard.

The property located at 1349 Serrano Ave is contained within a bungalow court consisting of 9 dwelling units and two additional buildings. Each of the 11 buildings located within the bungalow court is contained on a separate parcel. In 1920, permits were issued to owner/architect/contractor R.W. Schmoldt of 832 1/2 W. 41 St. for construction of six 4-room, 1-story, single family dwellings at 1390, 1392, 1394, 1396, 1398, and 1400 N Serrano Ave. Each residence was constructed at a cost of $2,000. Permits for construction of the remaining two dwelling units and the three buildings located to the rear were not found. However, the permits for the six dwellings note that a garage was...(continued on next page)

This property appears significant as one parcel in a bungalow court appears, an increasingly rare example of a formerly ubiquitous property type in Hollywood that represents an important pattern of dense, urban development to accommodate a rapid increase in population. That each building is located on its own parcel is also unique. Designed in a Craftsman style, the property exemplifies character-defining features of a bungalow court including multiple, semi-dethatched buildings arranged around a landscaped courtyard.

In 1920, a permit to alter the existing dwelling located at 1747 Hudson Avenue to turn it into a "twin apartment" by adding a small addition and toilet to the existing building, described as a single-story, 7-room bungalow. The owner/contractor listed on the permit is J. Charbanneau of 1753 Hudson. A permit was issued in the same year for erection of the 1-room private garage for the same owner. No architect is listed (LA Building Permit No. 2770). The original new construction date of the existing bungalow is unknown.

B10. Statement of Significance (continued): Directories contain listings for the Blessed Sacrament Convent. The 1939 Los Angeles City Directory does, however, contain a listing for the Convent, indicating it was constructed c. 1938-1939.

In 1937, the Roman Catholic Arch Diocese of L.A. was granted a permit for construction of a 2-story, single family, residence, to be located at 6636 Selma Ave and constructed at a cost of $31,995. The architect listed on the permit was Thomas Franklin Power. The contractor's name is unreadable. The permit notes that existing buildings on the property included a school, church, rectory, hall, and garage.

Blessed Sacrament Convent appears significant as a particularly fine example of Mediterranean Revival style architecture. European architecture also influenced Period Revival residential styles in Los Angeles, as some Angelenos looked abroad for acquisition of status and sophistication. The style that predominated during the 1920s was the Mediterranean Revival, an eclectic hodgepodge of influences perfectly attuned to Angeleno fantasies of the Italian Riviera. Character-defining features include a low, hipped red-tile roof, simple rectangular forms, balanced composition, and a main, centrally located entry surrounded by what appears to be dressed stone.

B10. Statement of Significance (continued): Sacrament," LA Times, 6 Dec 1925, E2). Ground was not officially broken for construction until March of 1927. The church was originally designed in the Spanish style and was planned for construction at an estimated cost of $450,000 ("Ground Broken for Hollywood Church," LA Times, 20 Mar 1927, E3).

The Blessed Sacrament School building is located on the adjacent parcel immediately east of the church and was also designed by Thomas Franklin Power. In 1923, a permit was issued for construction of the 24-room school located at 6657 Sunset Blvd (LA Building Permit No. 4580). The third property associated with the church contains the former Blessed Sacrament Convent, situated north of the church and school, fronting Selma Ave, constructed c. 1937-1939 and now in use as a social services building. In 1936, a permit was issued for construction of a 3-room recreation building on the same site, also with the address 6657 Sunset Blvd(LA Building Permit No. 17877). This building appears to have been demolished.

While originally contained on a single parcel, the buildings associated with the Church of Blessed Sacrament are currently located on 3 adjacent parcels fronting Sunset Blvd and Selma Avenue, situated between N. Las Palmas Ave and Cassil Place, contained on the following 3 APNs: 5547019028, 5547019031, 5547019035 (Sanborn Fire Insurance Maps, updated through 1951). The property currently located at 6615 Sunset Blvd contains one building, the Blessed Sacrament School, and a large surface parking lot. The school building was constructed in 1923 as a 2-story, 24-room school, 143 x 174 feet in size, erected at a cost of $125,000. The architect was Thomas Franklin Powers and the contractor...(continued on next page)
B10. Statement of Significance (continued): was Heitman Construction Company. The building was originally located at 6657 Sunset Blvd but the address was later changed and the school is now located at 6615 Sunset Blvd (LA Building Permit No. 4580).

The adjacent property located to the west at 6657 W. Sunset Blvd contains 2 buildings, the main Blessed Sacrament Church building associated with the school and a rectory building, situated behind the church. A 1925 LA Times article features a drawing of the proposed church building, also designed by architect Thomas F. Power ("New Church for Parish of Blessed Sacrament," LA Times, 6 Dec 1925, E2). Ground was not officially broken for construction until March of 1927 ("Ground Broken for Hollywood Church," LA Times, 20 Mar 1927, E3). The church was originally designed in the Spanish style and was planned for construction at an estimated cost of $450,000. The third property originally located on the same parcel with the church, rectory and school contains the former Blessed Sacrament Convent, constructed c. 1937-1939 and now in use as a social services building. In 1936, a permit was issued for construction of a 3-room recreation building on the same site, also with the address 6657 Sunset Blvd. This building appears to have been demolished.

This property appears significant as an excellent example of an increasingly rare property type. Single family residences from the pre-annexation period of Hollywood appear particularly significant as an important pattern of development, illustrative of Hollywood’s early development as an independent city. Although residential development began a few years earlier, Hollywood became an independent city in 1903. By 1909, Hollywood experienced growth on an exponential scale, with a population increase of 700 in 1903 to 4,000 in 1909 and accompanying difficulties supplying services to residents. As a result of its growing pains, Hollywood became a district of Los Angeles in February 1910.

Located adjacent to the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce building, the structure located at 6536 W. Sunset Blvd was originally opened as a Spanish style shopping court fronting Sunset Blvd for 200 feet by owner Fred Thompson. Total cost of construction was estimated at $100,000. It was designed with a large central Spanish courtyard surrounded by shops and studios. A full grown olive tree was planted in the center, after which the court was named, "The Court of the Olive Tree." The architect was Gogerty & Weyl and the contractor was Henry Boller. The decorator was Stefan Hobercheck (*"Studio Building Under Way, Shopping Court to Open in October," LA Times, 3 Jul 1927, E8). According to... (continued on next page)

Located adjacent to the Spanish style Cat & Fiddle restaurant (originally a building designed for shops and studios), the building located at 6520 Sunset Blvd was constructed in 1925 to house the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce. As early as 1929, it also housed the Hollywood Credit Association, the Kiwanis Club of Hollywood, the Lions Club of Hollywood, and the Merchants Bureau of Hollywood (1929 LA City Directory). The original building permit, issued in November of 1925, indicates that this building located at 6522 Sunset Blvd was originally designed as a 2-story office building for the Chamber of Commerce, previously of 1124 Van Nuys Building. The architect was Morgan, Walls, & Clements...

DPR 523A (1/95) *Required Information
This property appears individually significant for its high quality of architectural design in a Spanish Colonial Revival style. While many residential buildings were constructed in the Spanish Colonial Revival style during this time period, this property is a particularly excellent example of the style serving as a paradigm of characteristic features of the style. What we now call Spanish Colonial Revival style is really the second phase of a larger, more encompassing style which began in the 1890s and 1900s. Developing alongside a national trend of high style, academic architects employing historic eclectic styles, Spanish Colonial Revival style, in the broadest sense of the term, was...
B10. Statement of Significance (continued): an attempt to create and define a prototypical Californian expression of architecture. The 1890s -1930s was a period in which historic eclecticism was the dominant mode of architectural expression. The academic, high style expression of Spanish Colonial Revival style was popularized by the Panama-California Exposition of 1915 in San Diego. The L-plan layout of the subject building provides more streetfront elevations to showcase stylistic elements, including the balconies, and stairways with decorative elements, a corbelled arched overhanging second floor, and the arched opening to the courtyard.
